

Five Wounded in Mystery Shooting On 'Lovers' Lane'

School Teacher and Art Student Seriously Hurt in Evanston Attack.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—Two women and three men were wounded in a mysterious shooting on Lovers' Lane, Evanston, shortly before midnight. The five were standing in front of a one room bungalow occupied by the two women when an auto roared by, the occupants discharging several shots from a shot gun.

Miss G. R. Dow, a school teacher and Miss Minnie Mahoeck, an art student, who were the most seriously wounded, stated they had been annoyed recently by two men, whose names they did not know. They had complained to the Evanston police. The authorities advised the girls to arm themselves and they carried two loaded revolvers in their hand bags.

As they neared their bungalow, which they used as a summer cottage, Miss Dow said she looked back and saw the auto occupied by two men, coming after them. They ran to the gate of their bungalow, where William Heacock, Harold and Henry Cochrane, friends of the two women were standing. The women hid behind the three men as the auto passed by and a man leaned forward and shot five times. The two women although wounded by the shots from the shotgun, returned the fire at the fleeing auto.

All of the injured were taken to the Evanston hospital. While their injuries were pronounced serious by physicians, they were expected to recover.

AID EXPORTING OF FARM CROPS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Hundreds of millions soon will be advanced to aid in the exportation of farm crops to the war finance corporation, Managing Director Eugene Meyer said today.

Plans have been virtually completed for carrying out the bill recently passed by congress directing the corporation to aid agricultural interests in this manner. Loans on exports up to $1,000,000,000 can be made under the act, but this figure probably will not be reached for several months.

Special committees of the corporation now are being formed to investigate appeals for funds.

SOUTH BEND BUSINESS COLLEGE OPENS WITH LARGE ATTENDANCE

The South Bend Business College opened its thirty-ninth annual fall term this week. It was an inspiring sight to view the very large number of young people starting on their business training.

This is the largest fall term enrollment the college has ever had and the management is exceedingly gratified over this display of the confidence the public has in the school and its methods. One of the officers remarked:

"We have tried to give the people of this community the finest commercial school possible and this attendance is evidence of the fact that our efforts are known and appreciated. Many young people have arranged to come in later in the month and succeeding months, and the school will be still larger before the first of the year. Pupils may enter any time and be assured of receiving the same careful attention being given those entering today."

The Night School begins Thursday evening, Sept. 8. The enrollment will undoubtedly be large because of the opportunity offered young people employed during the day to turn their spare hours into a training that will assure a better position with increased pay. The nine courses of study, including Professional Accounting and Auditing, gives broad and varied training in business from the beginning to the most advanced phases.

The offices of the College will be open each day and evening throughout the week, and any one interested in the night or day school is invited to call in person or telephone Main 551 for budget of information.—Adv.

NOBODY WANTS A JOB LIKE THIS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Although there is a serious unemployment situation throughout the country, the government has a number of positions which it is finding difficulty in filling. These jobs are prohibition enforcement billets along the Mexican and Canadian borders. One of the drawbacks, prohibition officers said today, is that the mortality rate among agents along the two "far dung bottle lines" is excessively high. The rum runners shoot them off as fast as the bureau sends them out.
